The plaintiffs claim of the defendant $2688.77, due on a promissory note drawn by Taylor, Davis & Company, J. B. Taylor and M. B. Davis, on the 15th day of September, 1916, for the payment of said sum, with interest thereon at eight per cent from date of execution, to the plaintiffs, and which said note was endorsed by the defendant, as follows: "For value received the undersigned hereby guarantees the prompt payment of the within note at maturity and all times thereafter, waiving protest, demand and notice of non-payment." And the plaintiffs allege that the said note was not paid at maturity and that same is due and unpaid at this time, together with the interest thereon, and that the said note is the property of the plaintiff, and that the said note was payable six months after date; plaintiffs further allege that all rights of exemption are waived in said note, and that said note further provides for the payment of a reasonable attorneys fee for the collection of same and that $325.00 is such reasonable attorneys fee, which said amount, together with the principal and interest is herewith claimed.
