Abstract

[illegible]

Figure 1 displays a 4x4 grid of 16 grayscale images. Each image shows a different pattern of dots and wavy lines. The patterns vary in density and orientation, representing different combinations of dot and wavy line parameters. The images are arranged in a grid, with each row and column showing a different combination of these parameters.

The figure consists of a 3x3 grid of small square images. Each image contains a different pattern of black dots. The patterns are arranged in a way that suggests a progression or a set of variations. The top row shows three distinct clusters of dots. The middle row shows more dispersed and irregular patterns. The bottom row shows patterns that are more horizontally elongated and less dense. The overall effect is a visual representation of a stimulus space defined by dot patterns.
