MOORE PTG. CO.

at all the evidence in this case and considering it fully, your minds are left in such a state of uncertainty that you cannot say beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant is guilty of the offense charged, then this is such a doubt as would entitle the defendant to an acquittal and you should so find.

5. The court charges the jury that, if the jury, upon considering all the evidence, have a reasonable doubt about the defendant's guilt, arising out of any part of the evidence, they should find her not guilty.

14. The court charges the jury that a reasonable doubt may arise, though there is no probability of the defendant's innocence in the testimony; and, if the jury have not an abiding conviction to a moral certainty of her guilt, then they should find her not guilty.

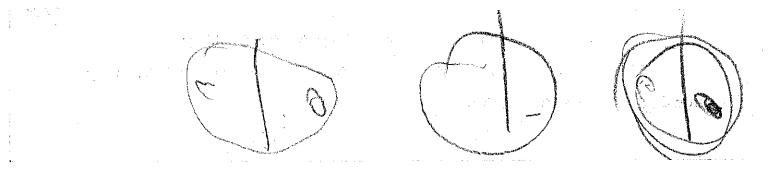

7. The court charges the jury that if the evidence is further not so convincing as to lead the minds of the jury to the conclusion that she is guilty, they must find her not guilty.

9. The court charges the jury that defendant cannot be convicted in this case unless each and every juror is not only reasonably satisfied from the evidence of defendant's guilt, but is satisfied from the evidence, and the evidence alone, beyond all reasonable doubt, and to a moral certainty, of her guilt.

13. The court charges the jury that if, upon a consideration of all the evidence, the minds of the jury or any member of the jury is left in a state of reasonable doubt and uncertainty, by the evidence or any part of the evidence, of defendant's guilt, then you cannot convict the defendant.

must be separately satisfied, beyond a reasonable doubt and to a moral certainty, that defendant is guilty of the crimecharged, or you cannot convict her.

15. The court charges the jury that, if they have a reasonable doubt from the evidence of the defendant's guilt, they should find her not guilty.

6. The court charges the jury that if there is one single fact proved to the satisfaction of the jury which is inconsistent with the defendant's guilt, this is sufficient to raise a reasonable doubt, and the jury should acquit her.

8. The court charges the jury that unless each of you is convinced beyond a reasonable doubt of the guilt of the defendant, from the evidence in the case, then you should not convict her.

2. The Court charges the jury that the defendant in this case was under no legal obligation to retreat from the place where the difficulty occurred, but she had a right to stand her ground and repel an attack, if any such attack was made.

10. The court charges the jury that if after a full way consideration of all the evidence the guilt of defendant is not proven to a moral certainty, then the jury must find defendant not guilty.
