

Ed. Cole } Spring Term 1894
 vs }
 J. C. Yarker }

Defendant moves to set aside the verdict in this cause

For misdirection on the part of the jury after the cause had been submitted to them in all ways plaintiffs counsel to take part in their deliberations and for the account for which the jury shewed their verdict and in adopting such sum as their verdict.

1. The verdict is contrary to the evidence in that it is excessive and was fixed for the adoption of the jury by & in the presence of plaintiffs attorney who calculated the amount of such verdict on an account which was not in evidence and the items of which were not proven
