Figure 1. A schematic diagram of the proposed system. The system is designed to detect and classify faults in a power system. It consists of a power system model, a fault detection and classification module, and a fault location module. The power system model is represented by a set of nodes and branches. The fault detection and classification module is responsible for identifying the location and type of faults. The fault location module is responsible for determining the exact location of the fault. The system is designed to be robust and reliable, and it is capable of detecting and classifying faults in real-time.

Chemical structures of compounds 1 through 6 are shown. Compound 1 is a benzene ring with a methyl group and a 2-methyl-2-propenyl group. Compound 2 is a benzene ring with a methyl group and a 2-methyl-2-propenyl group. Compound 3 is a benzene ring with a methyl group and a 2-methyl-2-propenyl group. Compound 4 is a benzene ring with a methyl group and a 2-methyl-2-propenyl group. Compound 5 is a benzene ring with a methyl group and a 2-methyl-2-propenyl group. Compound 6 is a benzene ring with a methyl group and a 2-methyl-2-propenyl group.
